6. Procedure for Compliance Opinion for Appointing or Renewing a Corporate Officer

Procedure	COMPLIANCE OPINION (CONFLICTS OF INTEREST AND REPUTATION) ON APPOINTING OR RENEWING A CORPORATE OFFICER

I - CONTEXT

The Societe Generale Code makes provision in Book A- Title III- Governance of Subsidiaries, that Compliance departments are always to be consulted when appointing or renewing corporate officers for areas relating to compliance.¹

Corporate officers should not find themselves in a situation where their personal interests are not compatible with company interests which might influence the impartiality expected from them in carrying out their duties. In the same way, members of the Management Body should at all times be of sufficiently good repute to ensure a sound and prudent management of the entity.

Compliance departments (BCO – Business Compliance Officer in charge of the scope) should be consulted by the Corporate Officers Correspondent prior to appointment or renewal of corporate office position to give formal opinion (cf. V- Compliance Opinion) on the following subjects:

- reputational and conflicts of interest risk when external persons take up corporate office positions or when they are renewed in a Group entity;
- reputational and conflicts of interest risk in case of appointment or renewal of an employee as corporate officer in an entity that is not part of the Group or in case of doubt between its appointment and function as employee.
- Conflict of interests risk in the appointment of an employee in a Group entity in the event of doubt as to existence of a potential conflict of interest.

Some points of attention on the following cases:

- Employees supervising areas² related to periodic control, risk, finance or compliance are forbidden from having non-executive mandate (i.e. function within a management body in its supervisory function) in an entity falling within the scope of their hierarchical supervision. Any exceptions, e.g. those requested specifically by the regulators, must be validated by SEGL/CAO. As stipulated in SG Code, corporate officers shall notify their corporate officer correspondents of any change of activity (professional mobility, suspension or termination of their employment contract, retirement) who will then have to question the Compliance department in the event of a potential conflict of interest.

¹ This operating mode does not concern the functions exercised in entities whose corporate purpose is not mainly commercial (civil or patrimonial companies, associations, foundations, etc) which have not to be entered in STP E-Map, the tool used for monitoring investments and securities.

² This applies in particular to functions performed within RISQ, CPLE and DFIN departments (LoD2) or IGAD (LoD3) but may also include on a case-by-case basis LoD1 functions (i.e., entity CFOs, Heads of accounting consolidation, significant control function over the entity likely to report on its activities to the Board).

- Employees of the Group having professional business relations with an entity that is not part of the Group cannot become company officers in such entity, unless formally validated by SEGL/CAO. In such cases, they must refrain from participating in decisions related to these activities.
- Employees of the Group that regularly report on their activities to the supervisory/administrative body of an entity cannot become company officers in such entity (except Chief Executive Officer, Deputy Chief Executive Officer).

The corporate officer bearing the ultimate responsibility, he must provide the Compliance department with all necessary information allowing it to give an opinion as soon as he is asked or when he plans to take a corporate office position.

Each Group employee is responsible for reporting to Compliance when he/she identifies a situation that could lead to conflicts of interest (SG Code B. 2421). This may include situations of taking or renewing internal corporate office positions. In the event of taking or renewing external corporate office positions, he/she must contact his/her corporate officer Correspondent and obtain the prior approval of the Head of his/her department, a positive opinion from his/her Compliance department and, as far as necessary, his/her HR Department (SG Code B. 2445).

II - PURPOSE

The purpose of this procedure is:

- to help Corporate Officers Correspondents to refer to the dedicated compliance departments to obtain an opinion on reputational risk and conflicts of interests prior to appointment,
- to enable dedicated compliance departments to provide consistent opinions within the Group,
- to define roles within CPLE (between CPLE of the concerned subsidiary, CPLE BU/SU and CPLE/REG)

The table below summarizes the type of opinions expected for the various cases listed above:

CASE	COMPLIANCE OPINION
Employee taking a corporate office position in an external company*	Conflict of interest + reputation of the external company
Retiree taking a corporate office position in one of our subsidiaries	Conflict of interest if the person holds other corporate offices that may create a conflict of interest
Appointment/renewal of an external natural person representative	Conflict of interest + reputation
Appointment of a permanent representative of the State shareholder or a permanent representative/director of the shareholder (SG majority shareholder)	Conflict of interest + reputation
Appointment of a permanent representative of the State shareholder or a permanent representative/director of the shareholder (SG minority shareholder)	Reputation
Appointment of a staff representative	No compliance notice, no SEGL approval

* The unlimited corporate office positions of an employee in an entity external to the Group must be subject to a compliance opinion (conflict of Interest and reputation) at least every 4 years to ensure that the situation has not changed.

III - INFORMATION NECESSARY FOR THE FILE ANALYSIS

1 - Updated CV and list of corporate officer positions

The CV must be up to date and include the following information:

- Name, surname, Birth date, skills
- Education/courses
- Professional experience
- List of skills/ aptitudes acquired
- List of appointments (corporate officer positions, elective offices) or other commitments (volunteering...)

When an appointment file has been sent to the regulator it may also be provided to the compliance department as it generally includes a list of corporate officer positions, potential conflict of interest situations and questions relating to the reputation which may help in compliance analysis.

2 - Assessment of risks relating to conflicts of interest

Managing conflict of interest risks is set out in the Societe Generale Code -Book B- Title VI-Section 4.

Group employees must ensure not to find themselves in a situation of conflict of interests when they take up an external corporate office position (whether privately or on behalf of the Group). The appointments which are particularly likely to present a risk of conflict of interests are those in companies present in one of the sectors of activity of the Societe Generale group, those in a customer or a supplier or in a company applying know-how acquired in the Group.

In the same way it should be ensured that external persons taking corporate office positions within the Group are not likely to find themselves in a situation of conflict of interests because of their function, their other corporate office position, their commercial relations or their financial commitments with the Group.

The questionnaire set out below is to be completed by the corporate officer to enable the compliance department to precisely assess potential conflicts of interest.

SITUATIONS OF CONFLICT OF INTEREST	YES/NO	DETAILS

3- Assessment of risks relating to reputation

Managing reputation risks is set out in the Societe Generale Code -Book B- Title V-Section 2. The review of risk to reputation consists in ensuring that there is no Negative Information relating to an external person taking up a corporate office position in a Group company or relating to an external company in which one of our employees wishes to take up a corporate office position.

“Negative Information” is unfavourable information relating to a person, a company or their entourage such as:

- penal, civil or administrative proceedings
- disciplinary measures
- sanctions by public authorities, international organisations or professional organisations,
- bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings (restructuring proceedings, liquidation)
- withdrawal, revocation, prohibition from managing or cancelling of registration, of membership or licence relating to the exercise of a commercial or professional activity
- money laundering or financing of terrorism,
- corruption, fraud, tax avoidance or other connected offences

This information may be sought out using any means and in the context of usual due diligence used on our customers. As an example, the following tools can be used:

⁴ High influence" is possible at every level: local politician (e.g. mayor); regional or national politician (e.g. cabinet); public employee (e.g. governmental job); or state representative. The materiality of the conflict-of-interest depends on whether there are specific powers or obligations inherent in the political role which would hinder the appointee from acting in the interest of the entity.

II. INDIVIDUAL AND COLLECTIVE CONDUCT GUIDELINES

The harmonious development of our Group is based on trust, both between employees and between the Group and its employees. Maintaining this trust requires adherence, at all levels, with a certain number of rules regarding conduct.

Some clear and well-defined principles make useful benchmarks. They do not cover every ethical situation but serve as guidelines where there is doubt or uncertainty regarding the stance to adopt.

Each of us always adheres to all agreements, Directives and Instructions in force within the Group.

Everyone demonstrates loyalty and fairness and fosters good relationships with our colleagues. They undertake to act in accordance with our Group's values.

Everyone ensures that the activities dependent on them are conducted in accordance with our Group's existing policies and procedures as regards the protection of health, safety and the environment.

Each of us takes the social, economic and environmental consequences of our decisions into consideration.

Over and above compliance with laws and regulations, everyone acts with integrity both inside and outside the company when they are representing it.

Restraint is to be exercised when making statements on any Group-related matter outside of the Group.

Everyone contributes toward the implementation of our best practices and co-operates with the internal audit and control processes diligently and transparently.

A. Maintaining the confidentiality of information

Business confidentiality is an essential component of our role as bankers. It applies under all circumstances and to all types of media, including new communication channels such as social networks. Individuals are the custodians of - and responsible for - the confidential information they receive. They may only use such information internally for business purposes and must not disclose it outside the company unless permitted to do so or where required to do so by the law, in particular at the request of certain courts or the supervisory bodies for the banking profession.

Some confidential information may be deemed inside information in the sense of banking and financial regulations. Those of us in possession of inside information, either owing to our function or unintentionally, are subject to special confidentiality obligations and a duty to disclose or abstain from trading.

Electronic mail is to be categorised on the basis of the confidentiality level of the information it contains.

The sending of information of a professional nature outside the Group via messaging services or other external media that are unrelated to the professional environment is prohibited in principle. In exceptional cases, information of this kind may be sent, primarily via a personal messaging service, under the conditions provided for in internal procedures.

Market integrity

Everyone of us must act in a responsible manner and respect market integrity. Everyone acts in strict compliance with the standards and principles that govern transactions on financial markets, by abstaining from any behaviour or action likely to distort competition, or to alter reality or transparency where other market participants and the regulatory authorities are concerned.

Everyone complies with the domestic and international rules to combat market abuse, and exercises ongoing vigilance to protect market integrity.

The following are specifically prohibited: breaching insider trading rules, disclosing inside information in an illegal manner, disseminating information that sends false or misleading signals to the markets, or manipulating prices.

Any suspicion of a case of market abuse must be reported to the persons in charge of compliance.

Conflicts of interest

Each of us refrains from maintaining personal relationships with our clients, partners and suppliers which could compromise our professional duties or place us in a situation of conflict of interest. We report to our line management and the Compliance department any conflict of interest to which we might be subject.

We must avoid our own interests or those of our immediate circle entering into conflict with our Group's interest. Where there is any doubt about particular transactions or situations with respect to this Code of Conduct or any applicable Instructions, we should seek advice from our line management and the Compliance department. Everyone must avoid taking any financial interest in a competitor, supplier or client without prior permission in writing from their line management and the Compliance department.

Where one of us may be considered as a Group representative, he or she must refrain from involving our Group or any Group entity in any public activities or responsibilities that he or she may exercise outside of the Group

D. Dealing with our clients and suppliers

We must all meet the commitments made in our dealings with our clients, partners and suppliers, treating them fairly and making any choices necessary on the basis of objective criteria.

All corrupt practices are prohibited. Those of us who are subject to pressure or requests from third parties must inform their line management.

Gifts to our clients or their representatives must be modest and comply with the rules set by our Group's entities. The same applies as regards individuals in positions of public authority, government officials and similar persons.

Similarly, each of us will strictly adhere to the value limits that apply in our entity to gifts or invitations from our clients or any other business relationship.

To avoid any questionable situation, if necessary each of us must seek advice on the stance to be adopted from our line management.

As part of the provisions relating to the prevention of money laundering, terrorist financing and tax evasion, and in compliance with national and international rules on sanctions and embargos, everyone is continuously vigilant, and must follow customer identification and 'know your customer' procedures for all clients or instructing parties, along with all transaction verification procedures.

E. Use of resources

Each of us ensures that our company's tangible, intangible, financial and property assets are protected and uses them reasonably, in compliance with the policies and procedures governing their use and application, as communicated to us. No one must make excessive personal use of the equipment and services made available to them.

Everyone strives to use resources economically and to take account of environmental aspects in their decision making.

III. COMPLIANCE WITH THE CODE OF CONDUCT

Every one of us, both permanent and temporary employees, must comply with the Code of Conduct, thereby contributing to the protection of our Group's most important asset, namely its reputation.

We collectively and individually ensure this Code is applied and that all of our actions comply with it, irrespective of our position within the Group.

Compliance with the Code of Conduct is in particular enforced by the application of the internal policies and procedures of our Group and its entities.

Everyone assumes their responsibilities on a day-to-day basis, and must not hesitate to share their questions and concerns, where applicable, in order to prevent any kind of risk.

If doubts remain, it may then be necessary to act as a whistle-blower.

A. Whistle-blowing

Each of us is entitled to raise an alert if we feel that we have good reason to consider that an instruction received, a transaction or, more generally, any given situation of which we are personally aware does not seem to comply with the rules governing the Group's activities.

This right must be exercised in good faith and in a responsible, impartial, non-defamatory and non-abusive manner.

The Group protects whistleblowers, in particular against potential acts of retaliation or disciplinary sanctions, and ensures that their identity is kept strictly confidential.

B. How whistle-blowing works

The whistleblower can be any a member of the Board, an employee, any external partner, and, as part of a duty of care, any provider with whom the Group maintains an established commercial relationship (subcontractors or suppliers).

The whistleblowing can be exercised on many levels: For staff:

- firstly, by contacting your direct or indirect management, or by directly contacting the local Chief Compliance Officer (CCO);
- secondly, if these means of communication are not appropriate, by contacting the Group's Head of Compliance directly using a whistleblowing tool hosted by a secure website which ensures that personal data is protected and kept strictly confidential.

In the case of service providers, the right to raise an alert is exercised directly using the whistleblowing tool described above.

The recipients of the alert ensure that investigations are conducted with the greatest possible level of confidentiality compatible with the requirements of the enquiry.

The possibility of raising an alert anonymously is a principle guaranteed (*) by the Group, which provides the means necessary to allow this form of communication. Nonetheless, knowing the identity of the whistleblower (while keeping it confidential) may make it easier to deploy all the necessary investigative measures.

These procedures for exercising the right to raise an alert apply to all Group entities, regardless of the country in which they are based. If necessary, entities can add to them in their regulatory documentation in order to reflect specific local regulations.

(*) Subject to national legislation which may prevent anonymity.
